

WCHS/STLBR

Annual Crab Feed

On Friday October 27 two Squadron boats with five members and a friend, Jake Lomnie, went after crab in Coos Bay.

The day was perfect for a day on the water. After a couple of days of heavy morning fog, it was clear, with bright sunshine and no wind. After the crabpots were dropped in several spots in the lower bay and left to soak for a while they were pulled and crab started coming aboard. In a few hours the boats returned to the dock with six limits (72) of crab.

At Swanson, P. Jake Lomnie and Eric Trapp, P at Fisherman's Wharf to have the crab cooked. After the crab were cooked they were taken to the Squadron building and refrigerated to await the Crab Feed on Sunday.

Sunday October 29 when members and guests arrived they found the tables covered with newspaper and pans of crab. Another large table was loaded with side dishes that go with crab. At 1400 (2:PM) BO Mike Gibson, RN called for attention and presented an Honorary Membership to Kim Singh for her voluntary (NON-MEMBER) service for Coos Bay Squadron. By 1500 (3:PM) the pans were nearly empty but there was still crab to take home for those who wanted it.

Two of the four pans of crab on the tables.

There was enough crab to fill two more pans, and it all went home with members.

For captions, hold cursor on picture.

Photos by Art and Kim

For Boaters, By Boaters

United States Power Squadrons®

Come for the Boating Education - Stay for the Friendship™

next page "Table of Contents"